

Interested in Global Health and Development?

Want to learn more about health systems, how they are governed, financed and challenged in these difficult, inequitable times?

We welcome you to this course!

EPI5180 International Health and Development

Winter Term 2023 (January 11 – April 12)

Wednesdays 11:30 am - 2:30 pm (850 Peter Morand Cr)

Presentations and seminars on philosophy of international development, global health and demographics, determinants of health, global health and human rights and humanitarian emergencies, tropical diseases and emerging pathogens, aboriginal health issues, approaches to assessing the impact (equity effectiveness) of interventions on global health, cross cultural communication, management methods for global health. Seminar presentation required. (3 units)

School of Epidemiology and Public Health

For more information: maria.cannataro@uottawa.ca

uOttawa